Multiplayer UEFA Euro 2020 is less than 18 months away – and EA SPORTS FIFA 20 will be among the available games, with all 64 teams and the host country – and we’ll be the first to live stream the experience, when FIFA 20 launches for the Xbox One family on September 27. As you’ve no doubt heard, this year’s UEFA Euro tournament will be held in 12 different host cities across Europe. We’re excited to show you a sneak peek into a preview build of the experience, as we get ready to share this content with you just in time for the tournament. But it doesn’t end there. During the tour we’re giving you a sneak peek into the highly anticipated FIFA 20 Multiplayer beta. With more than 4,500 servers and 600,000 players anticipated to be invited into the beta, the beta will kick off in two waves. The first wave of beta invites will be going out within the next week, from September 21st to September 26th. The second wave of beta invites will be going out within the next month, starting in October. We'll provide you with the details as soon as we know when this beta will begin. There'll be a series of blog posts on the FIFA 20 Insider at EA.com as we get closer to the start of the beta, and another soon after the beta is over. We'll continue to make regular announcements and provide you with updates. Gameplay On the tactical front, you'll be able to adjust your tactics and take on the role of your favourite team and even join in and play as your favourite player. And in FIFA 20, players also have the ability to create their own player in Ultimate Team or play a more passive role. When your team is in the final third of the field, your players will see a boost in aggression and tackle attempts. The midfield and centre-backs will be making more runs and interceptions to help them get closer to the final third. Your players will also see an increase in duel numbers. A new addition is the 2-3-2-3 tactic, where you can play with three central midfielders and two central defenders and even play a 3-4-3 defensive set. You'll get more ball movement than ever before in FIFA
