Feb 11, 2015 - 'The Legend of Bhagat Singh' poster for Bollywood. The title of the film is Bombay Velvet, which is made by Karan.Gerard Bell Gerard William Bell (born 4 February 1965) is a Scottish former football player and manager. Playing career Bell was born in Glasgow. An attacking midfielder, he was capped for Scotland at under-21 and full international levels. Between 1984 and 1991 he scored 78 goals in 227 appearances for Queen's Park. He was snapped up by Chelsea, but he did not win a regular first-team place and he moved on to West Ham, Port Vale and Mansfield Town. Bell retired in 1997 due to injury. Management career Port Vale He became assistant manager to Ray Harford at Port Vale, and took charge at Vale Park for one game on 24 April 1997, Vale's last league game before Harford was sacked. He guided Vale to a 1-0 win over Swindon Town in front of over 12,000 home supporters, the biggest attendance of the season. While he was under Harford's command, Vale finished second in the Second Division in 1997-98, qualifying for the playoffs, and took the club into the new FA Premier League. Bell was the first Port Vale manager not to have played in the First Division, and the first Port Vale manager to be sacked in the bottom half of a season. Mansfield Town He took over as Mansfield Town manager in November 1998, and took the team into a Southern League Cup Final at the age of 40, where they lost to Dartford. On 14 August 1999, Bell left Mansfield to join Rugby Town as assistant manager. International career Bell has earned five caps for Scotland at under-21 and full international levels.
