After upgrading to Lightroom 5.2 RC the Performance Issues and Developer Issues I had before have been somewhat improved but the Importing, Exporting and Transferring Issues have all become worse. Lightroom 5.2 is the version I will wait for until it is released fully running under Windows Mac and Linux instead of being nixed on all platforms the same day. I'm really sorry, but I can't use Lightroom 5.2 RC because of so many performance issues especially when editing my big NEF files. They do impact performance and the process is quite slow especially when you have to open the panel at the bottom. I think Lightroom team could improve its performance and should focus on this before release. Hopefully there will be a patch coming with the future version.

Looking forward to the future version and the new features. Thanks.

Regards! Sren I love the new Lightroom 5.2 is a vast improvement over v4 but there are some things I would have liked to see changed.

First, when creating a slideshow I would like to have the option to set the RGB Depth as I have always had but my current version doesn't have it.

Second, while creating a HDR image in Lightroom you usually set the Black and White Curve in the RAW recording of the image to a point that is OK for that particular camera even when using DRO. However, I would like to have it automatically set a custom point but I'm not sure if that's possible.

Third, in reducing a particular area of an image you can save the reduced image as a new image file. It would be nice if SmartSelection would automatically do this for you so you would not encounter errors going back to the original file.

AI innovations continue with several new additions and modifications to enhance the editing process in Photoshop. Users can now directly edit in a previously imported RAW file without having to re-process it through a different workflow. Create a selection in an image and then use the middle mouse button to create a selection. Then use the Brush tool to quickly paint the edges of a selection, and save the selection with one click. This solution allows users to identify and select specific areas of an image to further tweak or edit them. The new Content Aware Fill tool is often set with a default action to clear an object from an image. To avoid this, users can modify the action to select a specific area of the object to preserve. To avoid creating multiple copies, a new Fill with Preserves Original option has been added to the action, which will only overwrite the selected areas of the object in the image. The: Every screen, every surface, every object can be a canvas. Photoshop can transform any location into a canvas, whether that's a website, billboard, tablet or mobile device and over the years, it has been immensely popular. Now, through Adobe Share For Review, a new social collaboration feature in Photoshop, anyone in the world can share their work within the same Adobe application as their colleague or stakeholder. Improved Copy-Paste support — Copy objects, text and shapes between Adobe Photoshop and Adobe Illustrator, and vice-versa. Adobe has also updated its support for vectors in the Compatible Text extension, which will automatically detect and validate the new tags added in Illustrator Update 4.1.
